

Subject: James 1

From: admin@campaignforanindependentbritain.org.uk

To: johnpetley@yahoo.co.uk

Date: Friday, 20 July 2018, 16:54:17 GMT+1

----- Forwarded Message -----

Subject:Re: Re Brexit

Date:Thu, 12 Jul 2018 21:40:02 +0800

From:James <jamesdeburghe@yahoo.co.uk>

To:John Petley <admin@campaignforanindependentbritain.org.uk>

On 12/07/2018 15:25, John Petley wrote:

Dear James,

>

>

> This is explosive! Am I at liberty to pass this on? Obviously, I will > not mention you or how you came to know about this. If the likes of > Jacob Rees-Mogg get to hear of this, Mrs May is toast.

>

> Thanks,

>

>

> John

>

>

>

> On 12/07/2018 04:50, James wrote:

>> Dear John

>>

>> The EU office in Beijing called several leading French, German and >> Dutch senior managers working in China to an urgent meeting on Monday
>> 9/07

>>

>> The meeting was said to be private and informed those present that PM
>> May and Chancellor Merkel had reached an agreement over Brexit. It >> was claimed that the information was from the actual transcript of >> the meeting between the two.

>>

>> 1) The agreement was couched in a way to 'appease' the Brexit voters.

>>

>> 2) The agreement would enable may to get rid of those people in her >> party that were against progress and unity in the EU.

>>

>> 3) Both Merkel and May agreed that the likely course of events is >> that UK would rejoin the EU in full at some time after the next >> general election.

>>
>> 4) May agreed to keep as many EU laws and institutions in effect as >> she could despite the current groundswell of anti-EU hysteria in >> Britain (Mays own words it was claimed).
>>
>> 5). Merkel and May agreed that the only realistic future for the UK >> was within the EU.
>>
>>
>> Source of this was one of the translators present throughout the >> meeting who was given a written toned down version to translate into >> Chinese.
>>
>> I have no reason to doubt the veracity of this information. I cant >> reveal why or I would give away the identity of the translator and I >> have to assume this is not a secure email.

>>
>> With best wishes,

>>
>> James De Burghe

>>

>>

>>

>

>

> ---

> This email has been checked for viruses by Avast antivirus software.

> <https://www.avast.com/antivirus>

> -

>

Please do pass it on John, May has crossed a boundary it seems.

Very best wishes,

James

Virus-free. www.avast.com